Mental Health

Mental Health

The Shetland Islands Council, Shetland NHS Board and the voluntary and independent sector continue to work together to deliver a comprehensive mental health service to meet the needs of people who require care and support as a result of their mental health problems.

The Mental Health (Care and Treatment) (Scotland) Act 2003 came into effect in October 2005. The Act contains much more than simply legislation for new forms of compulsory power and safeguards. Its underpinning principles herald a new era of rights-based care for people who use mental health services. As well as providing care and treatment, services are now required to promote social inclusion and a wider citizenship agenda.

Delivering for Mental Health (2006) (www.scotland.gov.uk/Publications/2206/11/30164829/0) sets out national policy for the development of Mental Health services and the improvement of mental health in Scotland and it has set targets for local services to meet within the Local Delivery Plan, specifically on

- Reducing suicide rates, supported by training frontline staff in suicide prevention;
- Reducing the increase in prescribing of anti-depressants, and putting in place alternative supports for people suffering from depression;
- Reducing the number of readmissions to psychiatric hospital;
- Improving the early diagnosis and management of patients with a dementia.

The local action plan is taking forward work on each of these priorities to meet the local targets.

Needs

One in five adults in Scotland is affected by mental ill health each year. In Scotland between 25% and 30% of all General Practitioner (GP) consultations involve depression, stress or anxiety.

It is now generally accepted that good mental health underpins all other aspects of health. People with mental health problems have greater risk of, and higher rates of, heart disease, diabetes, respiratory disease and infections. They also have higher rates of smoking, alcohol consumption and drug misuse. They die younger and have a poorer quality of life.

Evidence shows that people with a mental illness are the highest 'at risk' group for suicide, with a rate of suicide 10 times that of the general population. In addition there are growing numbers of people with dementia.

Mental Health Strategy

Last year the Shetland Mental Health Partnership, the local multi-agency group that is leading on the development of mental health services in Shetland, published its mental health strategy.

The strategy sets out the vision for treating and preventing mental illness while continuing to promote mental health and well-being. We include within the strategy severe and enduring mental illnesses such as schizophrenia, bi-polar disorder and dementia as well as the wider range of disorders and illnesses including depression and anxiety.

Aims

In developing the strategy, we aim to achieve a single plan for local comprehensive mental health services; and to use the resources employed in the delivery of existing mental health services in the most effective way, avoiding gaps and overlap. This will involve health, social care, housing, education, employment, voluntary and other agencies in working jointly in the provision of complementary services for people with mental health problems.

In delivering this aim, we commit to the following principles:

- Wherever practicable and possible, the local service will be provided as a home-based service or in small facilities as close as possible to an individual's home. Points of access to specialist secondary health services should be reviewed, simplified, and widely publicised.
- Service users are central to their own care, treatment and recovery. Patients and carers should therefore be partners in designing and delivering services.
- We should provide systematic support for people with long-term conditions
- We should actively manage admissions to and discharges from hospital in order to minimize the incidence of delayed discharge and inappropriate readmission and to ensure that patients are provided with appropriate support.

- Making links to specialists services at a regional and national level;
- Agreeing joint spending plans;
- The variety of funding sources.

The Mental Health Operational Management Team (MHOMT) and the Mental Health Forum (MHF) will provide support to the partnership. In return the partnership will feed back its results to the Management Team and the Mental Health Forum.

The partnership will promote good communication between all agencies working on mental health issues.

Agreed at the Shetland Mental Health Partnership meeting on 14th July 2005.

Community Health Care Partnership

THE SHETLAND MENTAL HEALTH PARTNERSHIP (SMHP)

REMIT

The SMHP will take an over view of all mental health services in Shetland. In addition the SMHP will produce a new mental health strategy. This new strategy will be for the next three years and include the full range of mental health services. In the longer term, it will be used by the 2020 vision project.

The partnership will have a multi agency approach and include representatives from the Health Board, Council services and the Voluntary Sector, assisted by service users and carers.

The partnership will have an annual work plan, which will include overseeing initiatives such as Choose Life, the Suicide Prevention Action Plan and the Joint Local Implementation Plan (JLIP).

Responsibility for the strategy will rest with the SMHP. The SMHP will work with its partners to implement the strategy. When preparing the strategy consideration will be given to:

- Relevant national policies;
- Guidance for adults and children;
- The national framework for Mental Health services;
- The findings of national monitoring;
- The findings of recent needs assessment;
- Development of services including a local resource centre;
- Capacity within the Mental Health service;

- The strategy includes:
 - An inclusive approach
 - The range of services from prevention to treatment and care
 - A lifespan approach
 - A range of models including wellness / recovery / treatment models
 - An individual / family / community focus
 - Services that are integrated and co-ordinated
 - Evolutionary redesign
- We need to address the stigma attached to mental illness, and treat all people with dignity and respect.
- We should use the evidence on what works in organising services and delivering treatment to improve outcomes.

The strategy is now being taken forward through an action plan, which will ensure local delivery of Delivering for Mental Health. As well as meeting the national targets, three strands of work are current priorities: developing the range of psychological therapies available locally, developing crisis support services, and co-ordinating and developing training.

Current Services

A range of agencies both statutory and voluntary provide current services in Shetland. The main services for people with mental health problems are included here.

HEALTH AND SOCIAL CARE SERVICES

The Community Mental Health Team (CMHT), which is based in Lerwick includes:

Consultant Psychiatrist
 Community Psychiatric Nurses (CPN)
 Child & Adolescent CPN
 Specialist Social Worker

The CMHT provides both office based and home appointments, with out-patient clinics being held in all Health Centres throughout Shetland.

A local Consultant Child and Adolescent Clinical Psychologist is in post and has a number of training posts currently in place.

There is a visiting Consultant Child & Adolescent Psychiatrist service provided via NHS Grampian.

Specialist in-patient provision is provided via NHS Grampian.

Annsbrae House Supported Accommodation & Mental Health Community Support Service

Annsbrae is integrated within the CMHT under Joint Future. Annsbrae House provides 8 supported tenancies and one respite place for people with mental health problems throughout Shetland. An outreach service is provided from Annsbrae which can be accessed through the CMHT. Outreach work can help people with daily living skills and provide support with and monitoring of their mental health. It is proposed that there will be ongoing development of services based at Annsbrae.

The Skills Centre at Annsbrae provides personal and social skills training to those with mental health problems. Various groups are also held at Annsbrae e.g. hearing voices group, anxiety management group.

A multi-disciplinary management team has been established to ensure the ongoing development of mental health services at Annsbrae. This brings together Community Care, Housing, CMHT management and meets weekly. There is also a tenant's forum to address housing needs.

Mentally Disordered Offenders

The number of violent mentally disordered offenders in Shetland is small. There is an inter-agency approach involving Social Care, Health and the Police to working with both violent and vulnerable mentally disordered offenders.

VOLUNTARY SECTOR SERVICES

Shetland Link Up - provides support, advice, outreach and drop in facilities to those with mental health problems throughout Shetland.

Advocacy Shetland – provides independent advocates to support and represent vulnerable people. There is a specialist support service for those with mental health problems.

Supported employment schemes - Moving On identifies work placements and provides support to people on the scheme who have a wide range of needs including mental health difficulties.

Depression Alliance - is a self-help group who have regular fortnightly meetings and are now based at Annsbrae House.

SAS (Sexual Abuse Survivors) Group - is a self-help group, facilitated by a professional care worker, which meets monthly at Annsbrae House and provides a telephone helpline.
