

Viking Diaries - Resources

These can help you write your diaries. You can use the map or the picture, or you can draw your own!

Various routes taken by Vikings to Britain.
They took the bottom two routes to Shetland as well as further afield.

You can use these to help plan your journey, to help you imagine what your longship might have looked like, and to imagine how you, your family and those onboard with you spread over the isles when you arrived!

This is a map of Shetland in the Old Norse language. In this language, Shetland is called Hjaltland, Lerwick is called Leirvik, Yell is called Jala and St Ninian's Isle is called Rinansey. In this picture, Foula (Fugley) and Fair Isle (Friðarey) are placed in insets. From R. Grønneberg's 'Hjaltland', 1991, (Shetland Times Ltd.)
